*.* A very rare production by a highly humorous author, and containing among other things an allusion to Ralph Roister Doister, which was then no doubt a popular play. Ritson mentions an edition of 1597, but the present is clearly subsequent, and the Author includes a Dialogue between himself and his book regarding the opinions of the readers of the first impression. Although this is called "the first part," no second part is known or perhaps ever was printed. It is written in prose and verse, and printed in black letter. Fine copy in venetian morocco by C. Lewis, 8l. 8s. - - - - 4to.

* * This is a most curious contemporaneous Manuscript, and contains variations from the printed text of very great importance, which are not mentioned by Sir J. Ware or Mr. Todd as occurring in any other Manuscript. "While Spenser was in England in 1596, he without doubt presented his Political Treatise, the View of the State of Ireland, to the Queen, the great officers of state, and others. I thus account for the manuscript copy of the treatise in the Lambeth library: and for that which was found among the Lord Keeper
PAYNE AND FOSS,

Egerton's papers, and now belongs to the Marquis of Stafford, and for that also which exists in the Publick Library at Cambridge." Todd's Spenser, vol. i. page cxxi. The<sup>e</sup>present, formerly in the possession of Sir Arthur Chichester, Lord Deputy of Ireland, in 1604-6, was one of the copies distributed before the publication, as many severe passages are much softened, or altogether omitted in the printed Editions. A few of these variations are subjoined.

Printed Text, Todd's Edition,
first published by Sir<sup>t</sup> James Ware,
vol. viii. 320.

MS.

Thus was all that goodly countrey utterly wasted. And sure it is yet a most beautiful and sweet countrey, &c.

Thus was all that goodly countrey utterly wasted and left desolate as it yet remaineth to this day, which before hath been the chief ornament and beauty of Ireland, for that of the north, sometime was as populous and plentiful as any part of England, and yeelded unto the K. of England as it appeareth by good recorde thirty thousand marks of old monie by the yeare, beside many thousande of able men to serve them in their warres. And sure it is, &c.

Page 349. Is it possible? how comes it then that they are so unlearned still?

Is it possible? how comes it then that they are so barbarous still, and so unlearned?

Page 407. Irenæus. Therefore the fault whiche I finde in religion is but one . . . . . that is, that they be all Papists by their profession, but in the same so blindly and brutishly informed for the most parte, that not one amongst them knoweth any ground of religion.

So blindly and brutishly informed for the most parte, as that you would rather thinke them Atheists or Infidells, for not one amongst them, &c. (This is followed by a long and very interesting dialogue, part only of which is here extracted)

Eudoxus. This is truly a most pitifull hearing that soe many sowles should fall into the Devill's hande at once, and lacke the blessed comforte and Christe dear passion. Aye me, how cometh it to passe, that being a people as they are, trading with so manye nations and frequented by so manye; yet, they have not tasted any parte of these happy joyes, nor once benighted with the morning starre of truthe, but lye weltering in

Page 416. Examples you may see . . . . . when the government of that realm was committed sometimes to the Geraldines as when the House of York had the Crowne of England; sometimes to the Butlers, as when the House of Lancaster got the same. And other whiles when an English governour was appointed, he perhaps found enemies of both.

such spirituall darkenesse hard by hell-mouth oven ready to fall in, if God happily help not?

Irenæus. The generall faulte cometh not of any late abuse either in the people or their priestes, &c. &c.

After which in the MS. is the following passage. And this is the wretchednesse of that fatall kingdome whiche I thinke therefore was in old time called, Canissa Banna, or Sacra Insula, taking Sacra for accursed.

The above are among the many variations in this MS. which are not mentioned by Mr. Todd as existing in any other. In some places the copies in the Lambeth and Marquess of Stafford's Libraries agree with the present, at page 344, for instance, the passage which is directed by Sir James Ware to be crost out as being agreeable to the best copy, is omitted both in this and the Marquess of Stafford's MS., also at pages 386, 488, &c.

" In the namè of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit ; who is the beginning of all things, visible and invisible ; who is without beginning and without end ; three persons and one God.
PAYNE AND FOSS,

Here begins this book, taken and extracted from the histories of the Old and New Testament,—that is to say, from the books of Moses, and from the books of all the Prophets : and, then, of the incarnation of our Lord Jesus Christ ; of his life, of his passion, and of his resurrection : also, of the life, and of the miracles of his holy apostles, and of certain others of the saints, martyrs, confessors and virgins. And all things which are contained in this book, whether relating to the old or the new testament, are represented in the same by historical descriptions, and figures : and whoever shall well and diligently attend to the following explanation of them, will fully and perfectly comprehend the plan of the book.

There are, then, in this book one thousand and thirty-four subjects, all represented in figures, and explained in writing. The first of these subjects is taken from the book of Isaiah the prophet, which speaks of the power of God. The 175 following subjects are taken from the book of Genesis, which speaks of the creation of the world, of the human race, and of the other creatures. The next 155 subjects are taken from the book of Exodus, which speaks of the going of the children of Israel out of Egypt. The following subject is taken from the book of Leviticus, which speaks of the sacrifices of the altar. The 29 subjects following are taken from the Book of Numbers, which speaks of the battles and of the armies of the people of Israel. The 2 following subjects are taken from the book of Deuteronomy, which speaks of the death and burial of Moses. The 18 next subjects are taken from the book of Joshua, which speak of him—how he governed the people of Israel after the death of Moses. The 22 following subjects are taken from the Book of Judges, which speaks of those who governed the people of Israel after Moses and Joshua. The 6 following subjects are taken from the book of Job, which speaks of him, and of his patience under all his tribulations,—and also of the resurrection of the body after death. The 214 following subjects are taken from the book of Kings, which speaks of the beginning of the kingdom of the Jews, and of the kings who reigned therein. The 2 following subjects are taken from the book of Ezekiel the prophet, which speaks of the many visions which the Almighty shewed to him, and of the many prophecies which he delivered. The 31 following subjects are taken from the book of the prophet Daniel, which speaks of his prophecies and visions. The 5 following subjects are taken from the book of Judith, which speaks of her wisdom and her courage.

The 8 following subjects are taken from the prophet

- Jonas, who speaks of his prophecies respecting the city of Nineveh. The 16 following subjects are taken from the book of Tobit; which speaks of him and of his son, and of their good life. The 16 following subjects are taken from the book of the prophet Isaiah; which speaks of his prophecies concerning the destruction of Jerusalem. The 16 following subjects are taken from the books of several prophets; which speak of them, and of their prophecies. The 30 following subjects are taken from the gospel of St. Matthew, the apostle and evangelist, which speaks of the lineage and of the generation of our Lord, Jesus Christ. The 101 following subjects are taken from the gospels of all the four evangelists, and from the acts of the apostles; and speak of the incarnation of our Lord Jesus Christ,—his birth, life, and passion,—of his resurrection, his ascension, and of the coming of the Holy Spirit. The 3 following subjects are taken from the office of the church, and from the legend; which speaks of the life of our Lady, after the passion of our Lord, Jesus Christ; and also of her death, and of her assumption. The 21 following subjects are taken from the legends of the saints,—that is to say, of St. Michael, of the apostles, and of several martyrs. The 44 following subjects are taken from several holy confessors. The 40 following subjects are taken from the legends of several holy matrons, virgins, and female martyrs. The 14 following subjects, which are the last, are taken from the writings of the prophets, and of the saints, which speak of the coming of Antichrist, and of the end of the world."

The work concludes with the following words, without date or colophon: Ere sey Gott in der hohe. fol.

Though without date, this excessively rare edition of Breidenbach's travels appeared at Mentz in the same year as the original editions in Latin and German bearing the date of 1486, which it resembles in type.
 It contains the usual wood-cuts found in those editions, but in this, immediately under the above title, is one representing the Holy Sepulchre. Neither Panzer nor Clement appear to have ever seen this edition, but refer to other sources; Brunet is silent respecting it, and it has not yet found a place amongst the rarities of the Spencer library. The present is the identical copy alluded to in the Ædes Althorp. v. 2,

- “ Among the printers who have done honour to the Town of Antwerp must be reckoned the justly celebrated Christopher Plantin, the beauty and correctness of whose workmanship is attested by numerous publications in almost every branch of Literature. Of this esteemed printer it may be mentioned that he was born in the year 1514 near Tours; was apprenticed to the King's printer at Caen; commenced printing at Antwerp in 1555; and died there in 1589. The earliest production of his press is a piece translated from the Italian, entitled, “ La institutione di una Fanciulla nata nobilmente,” bearing his imprint with the date of 1555. It is a small duodecimo of sixty pages, and is expressly named by Plantin as the first fruits of his press: cestuy premier bourjon sortant du jardin de mon imprimerie. Mr. Van Praet, to whom I owe this interesting notice, mentions that the piece is extremely rare.” Cotton's Typographical Gazetteer, p. 15.

This work is extremely rare when found complete. The Dictionary is almost always wanting. "It was the perusal of this Dictionary," says Lord Monboddo, "and the account of the Language prefixed to it, that first made me think of this work on the Origin and Progress of Language." Sagard's account of the Hurons abounds in curious and entertaining matter. Their language is very defective, it has neither tenses, persons, numbers nor genders. The Hurons supply the deficiency by accents only, by means of which they can impart different significations to the same word.

- 2864 TYRURELL. Ein Ritter-Gedicht aus dem 13<sup>ten</sup> Jahrhundert, von Wolfram von Eschilbach - M.CCCC.LXXVII.

This curious volume, which is of excessive rarity even in Germany, is part of a series of legendary poems on the Saint-Graal and the heroes of the Rou d-Table, written by Wolfram von Eschilbach, a German poet of the thirteenth century, and was first printed in 1477, from a manuscript once preserved at Heidelberg, but now in the library of the Vatican. This legend was divided by Wolfram into three parts, entitled Parcifal, Tyturell, and Lohengrin, all closely connected with each other, to celebrate the prowess of Tyturell, surnamed "The protector of the Saint-Graal," who is the hero of the whole series. It was originally, however, of Provençale origin—perhaps even of a more remote or oriental one—as Wolfram himself acknowledges in the 86th stanza of this poem, where he says that he was indebted for his subject to the minstrelsy of Kyot the troubadour.

PAYNE AND FOSS,

Der von Proventzale.

Flagetanis perlure.

Heidensch vō dē grale.

Und Franzoys tût euch kunt vil aventure.

Dasz will ich tutschē wil es mir Got nun Kindē.

Was Parzifal da birget.

Das wirt zu liecht bracht on vakel zinden.

Though Wolfram wrote the whole of the portion called Parcifal, and the greater part of the Tyturell, we are told in the concluding stanzas of the present volume that it was left to be terminated by Albrecht von Halberstadt. Both these appeared in print for the first time in the year 1477, though they have only once been seen bound up together; but the Lohengrin remained in MS. until it was lately given to the public by M. Goerres.

The present copy of Tyturell, is in fine preservation. The poem is printed in two columns, and though it appears at first sight to be in prose, is really in seven line stanzas of alternate rhyme. In this peculiarity it differs widely from the other portions of this metrical romance, for the Parcifal is in regularly successive rhymes, and the Lohengrin in irregular metre with ten line stanzas. Though this edition has no colophon or printers name, it was executed, as well as the Parcifal of the same date, by Mentelin of Strasburg, with the same type as the Specula Vinc. Bellocacensis, which he published in the year 1473. It contains 307 leaves, and is divided into 41 parts or chapters, and the last leaf is filled with a table or register of the contents. It is without title, signatures, numerals, or catchwords. At the foot of the page preceding the table, is the date, in roman numerals, immediately under the concluding stanzas above alluded to.

 This Edition has not hitherto been collated, and is equal in rarity to any printed in the fifteenth Century. There is said to be only one perfect copy, which is in Lord Spencer's Library. If, however, the collation in the Bibl. Spenceriana is correct, Lord Spencer's copy is also incomplete. That in the Corsini Library at Rome, and the present, are both imperfect. The deficiencies in this are, the Table 7 leaves, the Text A 1. one leaf. Signature i 6 leaves (having signature j duplicate) and the last leaf consisting of half a page of printed text. In a dissertation, recently published by the Abate Follini, the printing of this edition is clearly proved to have been begun on the 20 April, 1482, and to have been finished in May, 1483, in the Monastery of Santo Jacopo di Ripoli, and the Ledger Book of the Monastery has an entry of a certain sum paid for printing this Decameron - - fol.

- *.* The present is the most valuable of the Editions of Dante printed in the Fifteenth Century. It commences with a Latin Epistle of Nidobeato, in which he mentions the Commentators upon Dante, and says, "et nos aliquibus locis pleraque conjunximus, aut usu comperta aut ex diversis auctoribus et annalibus tamquam ex fluminibus derivata; quæ cum juvare tum etiam delectare legentem possint." Lombardi has extracted many excellent readings from this Edition; it is also highly commended in an article in the Edinburgh Review by Ugo Foscolo.

This book was printed by Gutenberg after his lawsuit and separation from Fust in 1457-8. This celebrated edition of the Catholicon has always been considered an indispensable acquisition to Collectors of Books of the XVth Century. Its literary merit also is not inconsiderable, for the Editor of the London Edition of Stephens's Latin Thesarus, considers it the best Dictionary to the Phraseology of the Latin Fathers and Schoolmen.

4582 BIBLIA SIVE VETUS ET NOVUM TESTAMENTUM EX VERSIONE ET CUM PRÆFATIONIBUS S. HIERONYMI, 3 vol. fol.

“Anno millesimo centesimo quadragésimo octavo, incarnationis dominicæ scriptus est liber iste in honore Sanctæ Mariæ in Parcho; si quis eum abstulerit anathema sit.”

This Bible, as appears by the above Colophon, was written in the year 1148, for the Monastery of the Park, near Louvain, where it remained till recently. It is in perfect preservation, and is ornamented with many splendid and elaborate illuminations; it is mentioned by Sander as having been examined by the Deputies of the Council of Trent for the Vulgate Edition. A most curious Historical Chronicle is inserted at the beginning, in which the remarkable events of the world are brought down to the year 1310. It may certainly, as containing this Chronicle, the date of its scription, the curious illuminations, and for the importance of its text, be cited as one of the most valuable Latin Bibles brought into this country for many years, 126*l.*

- 5059 Constitutionum Marchiæ Anconitanæ Libri VI. This extremely rare book, printed at Jesi in the Marquisate of Ancona, containing the Laws and Customs (many of which are very curious) of Ancona, Urbino, Pesaro, and the adjacent countries, is thus described by Audifredi:—"Librum hunc habendum esse inter illustriora veteris typographiæ monumenta, ultro fatebitur quisquis oculos in eum conjecerit. Charta candidissima est, character rotundus sive Romanus isque pulcherrimus, ac paulo major eo quem typographi Silvium appellant; vorum compendia non multa. Duabus columnis linearum 33 impressus est sine signaturis, numeris custodibus et quantum observare licuit, sine ulla prorsus diphthongo." In calce, MCCCCLXXIII. In Civitate Exii finite fuerunt suprascripte constitutiones a Magistro Veronensi earum Impressore.

This copy was purchased at Lomenie de Brienne's Sale by Count Mac Carthy for 1600 francs. fol. Francof. 1590-1634, &c.

THE EXTREME RARITY OF A COMPLETE SET OF DEBRY'S VOYAGES IS WELL KNOWN TO BIBLIOGRAPHERS, and the value and importance of this celebrated Collection of Voyages may be duly appreciated by the circumstance of the NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF FRANCE HAVING APPOINTED A SPECIAL COMMISSION TO EXAMINE AND MAKE A MINUTE REPORT OF ITS CONTENTS, of the variations between the several editions, and every circumstance connected with their publication; WHICH REPORT WAS ARRANGED AND PUBLISHED BY CAMUS, BY THE ORDER AND AT THE EXPENSE OF THE INSTITUTE.

This was Serna Santander's copy, in whose Catalogue an elaborate description is given of it. It contains the first edition of the XXV. Parts, the Appendix to Congo, and duplicate copies of the nine first Parts of the Voyages to the West Indies from the second and third editions; and duplicate copies of the second, third, and tenth Parts of the Voyages to the East Indies from the second edition.

M. Renouard, in his "Catalogue de la Bibliotheque d'un Amateur," speaking of this copy, observes, "Cet Exemplaire, parfaitement beau, et très exactement décrit dans le Catalogue La Serna, No. 3690, reunit toutes les parties de la première édition, et celles qu'il est utile d'y ajouter des suivantes, toutes les figures que l'on peut désirer de reunir en doubles, enfin tout ce qui peut constituer UN EXEMPLAIRE SANS REPROCHES."

6265 LITTERÆ INDULGENTIARUM, WITH THE PRINTED DATE OF MCCCCLV. EXCESSIVELY RARE, 31*l.* 10*s.*

The following is an extract from Mr. Appleyard's very interesting discovery relative to the Printers of these earliest known specimens of Typography.

LITTERÆ INDULGENTIARUM.

Granted by Pope Nicolas V. for three years from the 1st May, 1452, in order to raise Money for the King of Cyprus against the Turks; Litteræ No. 1. With the printed date of 1454.

No. 2. With the printed date of 1455.

No. 1. The large Character of this Letter is precisely the same with that of the Mazarine Bible, and clearly proves the existence of the Type of that Bible as early as, or earlier than, the year 1454.

Gutenberg was in all probability the Printer of this Letter of Indulgence, as also of the Mazarine Bible, which splendid work he must have completed previous to the year 1455, as he was then obliged to surrender his Types to Fust and Schoeffer, and had no longer the means of continuing his Press.

The self same Type of the Mazarine Bible was subsequently used by Schoeffer (after the death of Fust in 1466), see Fac-Simile of the Fragment of Donatus with the Colophon "per Petrum de Gernsheym," in Lambinet, Vol. I. page 106.

Litteræ No. 2. The large Character of this Letter, having the printed date of 1455, perfectly resembles the Bible printed by Pfister at Bamberg, and proves the existence of the Type of that Bible in the year 1455.

The small Character of either of the two Letters has not yet, I believe, been discovered in any other production of the Press whatever; it is probable that only a small quantity was cast for this specific purpose; and, not being sufficient for a more extensive work, was not again brought into operation; or, it may have been superseded by the casting of superior Type, as that of the Bible of 1462, &c. &c. &c.

The Mazarine Bible must have been finished before the year 1455, when Gutenberg was compelled to deliver up his Types to Fust.

The Pfister Bible (the Type of which appears in the Letter of Indulgence, No. 2, having the printed date of 1455) must have been finished in the interval previous to 1461, as we find that Pfister had then that same Type at liberty, wherewith to print the Fables in 1461;—the four Scripture Histories in 1462;—and the Biblia Pauperum and Belial, both without date, and possibly previous to 1461.

The Priority of the three earliest printed Bibles may therefore fairly be assumed, as follows; vid<sup>t</sup>.

PAYNE AND FOSS.

- No. 1. The Mazarine Bible previous to 1455.
 2. The Pfister Bible previous to 1461.
 3. The Fust and Schoeffer Bible of the date of 1462.

MS. written upon the purest vellum, and ornamented with eleven Miniatures, which, in elegance of design, minuteness of finish, and richness of colouring, are not surpassed, if equalled, by any MS. or ornamented printed book in this or any other country. The amateurs who have examined it have been astonished that the art of illumination had arrived at such perfection at this period. In Roscoe's Lorenzo de Medici and Illustrations, is an interesting account of a MS. of Livy, which was presented to Alphonso King of Naples. This may lay claim to be the Identical Manuscript.

“Ce volume se payoit un très haut prix lorsque la jurisprudence ultramontaine avoit une influence plus obli-gée sur la législation des divers états de l’Europe. On sait qu’il fut vendu 410 francs a la vente de La Valliere, en 1784. Quoique moins recherché, il n’en est pas resté moins rare, et sera toujours précieux comme l’une des premières éditions d’Ulric Zell. Cette Bulle fut publiée en 1463, il est probable, que son impression fut faite de 1466 à 1467.” Renouard.

Quem modo tam rarum cupiens vix lector haberet,

Quicquid etiam fractus pene legendus eram.

Restituit Venetis me nuper SPIRA JOANNES.

Exscripsitque libros ære notante meos.

Fessa manus quondam moneo, calamusque quiescat

Namque labor studio cessit : et ingenio.

This first edition of Pliny is one of the most valuable and rarest of the first editions of the Fifteenth century. Only 100 copies were printed. It was unknown to Hardouin, the Editor of Pliny, and Ernesti speaking of it, says, "vitiose expressa multa, sed tamen multa meliora sunt quam in aliis editionibus: unde ad textum Plinii constituendum necessaria est."

7059 PLINII SECUNDI (CAII) HISTORIA NATURALIS EX RECENSIONE ET CUM PRÆFATIONE J. ANDRÆE EPISCOPI ALERIENSIS.

fol. Hercneus Lugdunensis Episcopus. Item Justinus ex Philosopho Martyr, item cum Hieronymo Eusebius Cæsariensis, serio posteritatem adjurarunt ut eorum descripturi opera conferrent diligenter exemplaria et sollerti studio emendarent. Idem ego tum in ceteris libris omnibus tum maxime in Plinio ut fiat vehementer obsecro obtestor atque adjuro; ne ad priora menda et tenebras inextricabiles tanti sudoris opus relabatur. Instauratum aliquantulum sub Paulo II. impressum Romæ presidentibus Magistris Conrado Sweynheym et Arnolfo Panaratz, (sic.) MCCCCLXX.

This is the second edition of Pliny, but taken, as appears from the Epistle prefixed by the Bishop of Aleria, from different MSS. and without the knowledge of a previous edition. Ernesti speaks highly of its merits—See also Audiffredi. In beauty and preservation the present copy, from Renouard's Collection, cannot be surpassed. It is bound in two volumes in blue morocco, 26l. 5s.

This is the most valuable edition of Ptolemy printed in the Fifteenth Century, and contains the earliest specimens of maps upon copper. The edition with the date of 1462 was printed at Bologna in 1482. The following extract will shew with what care this edition was executed:—

“Qua in re ne librariorum inscitia Tuæ Sanctitatis aures offenderet, Domitius Calderinus Veronensis cui hujus emendationis provincia demandata fuerat, eam curam suscepit, asserens cum vetustissimo Græco manu Gemisti philosophi emendato Latinos codices se collocaturum. Magister vero Conradus Sweynheym a quo formandorum Romæ librorum ars primum profecta est, occasione hinc sumpta posteritati consulens animum primum ad hanc doctrinam capessandum applicuit. Subinde mathematicis adhibitis viris, quemadmodum tabulis æneis imprimerentur, edocuit; triennioque in hac cura consumpto diem obiit. In cujus vigiliarum laborumque partem non inferiori ingenio ac studio Arnoldus Buckinck e Germania, vir apprimè eruditus, ad imperfectum opus accedens, ne Domitii Conradique obitu eorum vigiliæ, emendationesque sine testimonio perirent, nere virorum eruditorum censuram fugerent, immensæ sublimitatis machinamenta examussim perfecit,” &c.

fol. Upsalæ, 1675, &c.

“Rudbeckius, Arosiensis Suecus, Doctor et Professor, perpetuusque Curator Universitatis Upsalensis (1702), mirum in hoc opere testatus fuit ingenium, cum non solum singularum fere gentium origines ex Gothis ducat, sed etiam horum sacra, linguas, leges, litteras, aliaque, ita ut Succiam vaginam gentium vere esse demonstraret. Quidquid de Atlantica prædicant veteres, quidquid de cultu atque theologia gentili, singula apud Suecos quaerit. Immo nihil fere præclari gestum est, quod non patriæ suæ tribuat. Haec autem ut eo melius præstet, loca veterum scriptorum in sensus alienos detorquet, coniecturis nimium indulget, in etymis ludit et multa libertate aliarum gentium prærogativis derogat, haud semel de eo a viris doctis notatus, Baelio potissimum atque Tenzelio. Ioh. vero Mollerus ita de opere Rudbeckiano sentit: “Vel stupidus omnino sit, inquit, vel malitiose impudens, oportet, quisquis, ex opere hoc præclaro, et doctrinae omnigenae atque rarioris plenissimo, Autoris non agnoscit ingenium perspicacissimum, eruditionem variam pariter atque solidam, lectionem multam, ac per omne scriptorum genus diffusam, et diligentiam tandem pertinacissimam, plurimis iam elogiis ab orbis literati proceribus merito decoratas. Unum hunc in corpore pulcherrimo naevum observes, quod Autor nimium patriæ indulgens amoris hanc supra regiones orbis universi reliquias ubique, ἐνκαίρως ἀκαίρως evehere allaboret, et, ut suae genti, quicquid ævo prisco præclari est gestum, asserat, in exteris plerasque ac illarum prærogativas non raro sit iniurius, argumentisque adversus istas depugnet, prima quidem interdum fronte speciosis, sed minus tamen solidis et iusto robore destitutis.” Meuselii, Bibl. Historica.

Circa 1476

This is a Book of great rarity and curiosity. It is stated in the preface, that the Author, John of Salisbury, was present at the murder of Thomas a Becket, whose intimate friend he was; and that "dum pius Thomas ab impio milite cedetur in capite Johannis hujus brachium ferè—simul percisum est.”

The work contains many quotations from the classical authors, including the story of the Ephesian Lady from Petronius. At the conclusion of the Tale, the Author says, “tu hystoriam aut fabulam quod his verbis refert Petronius, pro libitu appellabis. Ita tamen ex facto accidisse Ephesi et Flavianus Auctor est.”

The large paper Wells's Xenophon is unquestionably the rarest of all the large paper Classics printed in England, being published in separate volumes and parts, during a period of seven years, and with distinct titles, they have rarely been united together. Dr. Dibdin only mentions three known perfect copies; that in the Radcliffe Library, Earl Spencer's, and Williams's, now in the Library of the Right Hon. T. Grenville. There is a fourth in the Library of the late M. Wodhull, Esq. The present set is entirely on LARGE PAPER, but the volume of the Anabasis being shorter than the others, it has been inlaid to their size. By reference to the Ædes Althorpianae it will be seen that Lord Spencer's volume of the Anabasis is also shorter. Dr. Dibdin also states that the copy in the Radcliffe Library is likewise much cut.

- 8248 AN ANCIENT GREEK INSCRIPTION, TO THE MEMORY OF TIBERIUS CLAUDIUS THEOPHILUS, THE SON OF TIBERIUS
CLAUDIUS THEMISTOCLES OF BESA, 15*l.* 15*s.*

This very curious Relique of Grecian Antiquity was seen at Eleusis in 1676 by Spon and Wheler, who have described it in the Account of their Travels. It is also described by Meursius in his Tract de Pagis Atticis at the conclusion of his Theseus. It is supposed to have been brought into this country by Wheler. It afterwards passed into the Collection of the celebrated Antiquary J. Kemp. From the intermixture of Greek and Roman Names, Porson was of opinion that this Eleusinian Stone was erected posterior to the subjugation of Greece by the Romans. From Dr. Adam Clarke's collection, who supposed the Inscription to have been executed during the reign of Claudius, and consequently in the first century of the Christian Era.

These Volumes formerly belonged to Waldron, who has made many marginal notes. He conjectures the author's name to be either John Marston, Gervas Markhani, or John Mason, but the author himself says,

“ My name is French, to tell you in a word,
Yet came not in with conquering William's sword.”

It is doubtless the original Autograph of a very curious poem. The title page is dated 1600; but a passage in vol. I. p. 215, shews that that part was not written until after the death of Prince Henry in 1612.

- 8949 BIBLIA SACRA LATINA; Vetus et Novum Testamentum complete, ex versione S. Hieronymi.

This Manuscript is a remarkably splendid specimen of the Art of Writing and Illumination in England during the XIVth Century. It is written upon vellum, in double columns, and in a fine bold character, and is embellished with numerous highly finished Paintings and Borders, many of which, as in the Gothic Ornaments of the Churches, are of a very grotesque description. The Illumination prefixed to the Book

PAYNE AND FOSS,

18l. 18s. - - - large fol.

- S950 BIBLIA SACRA LATINA; Vetus et Novum Testamentum cum Apocalypsi. An elegantly written Manuscript of the XIVth Century, upon vellum, in double columns, and in a very minute character. This is unquestionably a Manuscript of great Antiquity, and may probably be of the Tenth, and is certainly not later than of the Eleventh Century. It is written in a fine bold Lombardic Character upon vellum, and is ornamented with Capital Letters (several of which are in outline) in a very complicated but by no means ungraceful stile of Illumination. The Painting prefixed to Joshua, who maketh the Sun and Moon to stand still, is most interesting as shewing the probable period of the execution of this Manuscript. In fine preservation, and in the original vellum binding, with clasps, 31l. 10s. - - - large fol.
